Celebrating a Life

Randy Eugene Myers

What we will miss about our Pop:

- His orneriness, I remember watching him hide the mini donuts from Ella
- His quiet confidence, my assurance that Dad would always know the answer if I didn't know it
- His presence, he was always home when I got home
- His genuine love of animals, always had a cat or dog in his lap
- His ability to figure out how to fix anything with something he already had
- His animal snarls/noises he always made at the grandkids, and the giggles afterwards
- If something had to be done, he always got it done
- His grin when you knew he was up to something, I got that from him, and his love of kids, I did not get that from him
- Daily phone calls and texts from our neighbors, Gary and Larry, asking about Pop and offering help

No day shall ever erase you from the memory of time... Virgil
